

TURKEY TIME 2017

Where to Dine Out for Thanksgiving

Not interested in cooking this year? Here's our roundup of restaurants to check out for a hands-off holiday.

By Diane Stephani • 11/8/2017 at 8:45am

That's a mighty fine bird.

IMAGE: SHUTTERSTOCK/SAYERS1

These restaurants are serving their very own Thanksgiving dinners, meaning you get to enjoy the best meal of the year without all the cleanup (or obligation to keep entertaining guests when you're really just ready for a nap). Reservations, as per usual, are essential.

Trace

The all-you-can-eat buffet is every turkey lover's dream. Macadamia nut stuffing, white and dark turkey meat, smoked ham, ginger orange cranberry sauce, and a game changer: spiced and spiked hot apple cider. $75 per person, $25 optional beverage pairing; call 206-264-6060 for reservations.

Dunbar Room

A four-course buffet with highlights such as a cheese plate, farro and greens salad, sage roasted turkey, cedar plank salmon, roasted yams, and apple Normandy tart. $77 per person; call 206-693-3767 for reservations.

The Lakehouse

Four courses of family style goodness, with roasted carrot soup, twice baked sunchoke with salmon roe, roasted squash salad with cheddar and autumn greens, and classic roasted turkey with apple chanterelle stuffing, green bean casserole, and cranberry chutney. Pecan or pumpkin pie to finish. $70 per person; call 425-454-7076 for reservations.

Trellis

Three courses with oysters, scallops, smoked venison, and pan roasted wild stripe bass, in addition to traditional smoked turkey, cranberry compote, and hazelnut-sage and sourdough stuffing. $85 per person; call 425-284-5900 for reservations.

The Herbfarm

The five-diamond restaurant in Woodinville is offering its nine-course Harvest Table dinner, and diners on Thanksgiving will get to leave the restaurant with pre-prepared leftovers to enjoy the next day. $295 per person; call 425-485-5300 for reservations.